SF BUILD (Building Infrastructure Leading to Diversity) is a project funded by the National Institutes of Health (NIH).
SF BUILD is led by SFSU and is a partnership with UCSF.
The program initiative is to enhance diversity in the life, physical, clinical, behavioral, and social sciences of the biomedical workforce.

Research opportunities at SFSU and UCSF
Partial tuition coverage and a monthly stipend of $1114/month
Funds for research supplies and to attend a (virtual) research conference
Networking, peer mentoring, community building, and professional development

Current undergraduate status at San Francisco State University
Interested in research to address and eliminate health disparities.
Anticipate graduating no later than August 2023, and able to participate in the program for 1 or 2 academic years
Able to participate in the summer rotation from mid-June to mid-August 2021

Please note that NIH-funding of this program is currently pending
To apply visit: http://bit.ly/2021SFBUILD
For more information about SF BUILD visit our website: http://sfbuil.sfsu.edu/